AGILITY DEFINITIONS

INTRODUCTORY AGILITY — Dog and handler have never been exposed to agility obstacles OR have had limited training and experience in obstacle performance. Fundamental obstacle performance skills will be introduced. All work is on-lead.

BEGINNER AGILITY — Dog and handler have completed some agility training but need a refresher OR more work on one or more obstacles. Dog and handler are able to complete a sequence of several obstacles and the dog is beginning to work off-lead. Fundamental course handling skills will be introduced.

INTERMEDIATE AGILITY — Dog can successfully perform all obstacles with confidence and the dog and handler are able to complete a sequence of seven or more obstacles with reasonable focus while working off-lead. Handler is interested in solidifying the partnership and expanding the skills required to orchestrate a smooth flow through a sequence of obstacles. Fundamental course management will be introduced as well as course challenges such as side changes, obstacle discrimination, call-offs, and distance work.

ADVANCED AGILITY — Dog has mastered all the obstacles and works off-lead in a confident and responsive manner. Dog and handler can routinely negotiate a complete novice level course and the handler is ready to develop and/or refine the advanced skills and the course management expertise required to analyze and complete technical sequences and their transitions. Technical sequences will be presented to discuss the handling options and develop/practice the movement/skills required to successfully perform the sequence as a team in optimum partnership.
